

NANCY WYNNE IS INTERESTED IN VARIOUS OUTDOOR SPORTS

Delightful Informal Affairs Are Given Every Sunday by Special Members of Society During Early Summer. Tennis, Golf and Informal Luncheons

A MOST delightful way of spending a holiday has been chosen by a number of the married set who live out on the Main Line. They meet on Sundays at the various houses, have an informal luncheon and play tennis or golf as the whim may be. The Barkley Henrys will be hosts tomorrow at their home, Pine Cottage, in Rosemont. Some of the members of this little sort of half-club are Mr. and Mrs. J. Keasley Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. George McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. Tom McKeany, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Trustum Hare, Mr. and Mrs. Beau Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Chew, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cassatt, Mrs. Betty Madella, Captain and Mrs. Franklin McFadden and Major and Mrs. John C. Groome. Of course, Captain McFadden will not be there tomorrow, as he is already far on his way to Texas at the head of the 1st City Troop and Troop D. For you know the 3d City Troop has been ruthlessly shorn of its name and captain and placed under the command of Captain McFadden. Then, too, John Groome may not be there. When I last heard of him he had not decided whether he ought to go with the Troop of which he was so long captain, or remain here as the head of the State constabulary might be bound to do. I did not notice him yesterday morning in the crowd, but goodness knows I might have missed seeing my best friend in that bunch of humanity which swept about the platform of the station at the B. & O. at 2 g. m. I did see young John, or rather, Jack. Jack seems to me rather unusual for so young a man. A thinker, I surmise, probably due to make his mark in the world. His mother was Agnes Robins and he has two sisters, Mrs. Dal Dixon, and Mrs. Thompson, of New York. The former was Agnes Groome and the latter Martha Groome.

To return to the Sunday tennis and golf parties, they are really great fun, the various intimates who enjoy them tell me.

Well, you never can tell, but strange and wonderful things do happen these days and truth is often stranger than fiction. But you will scarcely believe me when I tell you that very soon we are to be startled with an engagement. And the startling part is that the woman in the case is nearly fifty and, stranger still, has no means to speak of, while the man is not yet 35 and is only well-to-do. It seems to be a real case of love and, yet again, it seems quite unthinkable to my poor way of looking at things. How can a woman of so many more years' experience respect the opinion of a man so much younger, and if love is not founded on respect, what have you? This sounds pretty much of a roast, but it is not meant to be. I simply find it hard to take in. Perhaps it will turn out very well. I don't think you will hear it for several months, my dears, but when you do, remember I told you first. Little Nancy seems to be able to snoop on these little things, all unconscious herself of what she may come upon in her daily wanderings. I'll tell you this much—the woman in question lives not far from Chestnut Hill. NANCY WYNNE.
